

This image shows a full page of primary-ruled paper. It features multiple sets of horizontal lines designed to guide young learners' handwriting. Each set consists of three lines: a solid top line, a dashed middle line, and a dotted bottom line. These sets are repeated vertically down the entire page, providing ample space for practicing letter formation and alignment. The paper is otherwise completely blank, with no margins or additional markings.

LISTENING

- 1 Wangari went to live on a farm when she was years old.
- 2 Liam explains that cutting down trees and growing more crops had a negative effect on the in the Rift Valley.
- 3 Wangari left Nigeria to take a course in at a foreign university.
- 4 In the USA, Wangari became interested in ending in the city.
- 5 Wangari was working at the university when she realised that was not always good for everyone.
- 6 Kenyan women depended on to make different things like buildings and fences.
- 7 Wangari felt that some of the country's weren't dealing with the problems.
- 8 The aim of the Green Belt Movement was to teach people about using their, such as trees and the water supply
- 9 When Wangari was unhappy about a new building, she started contacting and the government.
- 10 When Wangari was awarded the Nobel Peace Prize, she said she wanted to encourage people to feel responsible for their