

CONDITIONALS

	If-clause (hypothesis)	Main clause (result clause)	Use
Type 1 real present	If + any present form (Present S., Present Cont. or Present Perfect)	Future/Imperative can/may/might/must/should + bare inf/Present Simple	true or likely to happen in the present or future
	If the weather is nice, we will go on an excursion. If you have done your homework, you can watch TV. If you have a headache, take an aspirin.
Type 2 unreal present	If + Past Simple or Past Continuous	would/could/might + bare Infinitive	untrue in the present; also used to give advice
	If I were you, I wouldn't speak to him again. (advice) If he didn't eat so many sweets, he wouldn't have a problem with his teeth. (but he eats a lot of sweets - untrue in the present)
Type 3 unreal past	If + Past Perfect or Past Perfect Continuous	would/could/might + have + past participle	imaginary situation contrary to facts in the past; also used to express regrets or criticism
	If she had known how to use the mixer, she wouldn't have broken it.

- When the if-clause precedes the result clause, we separate the two clauses with a comma. If he had been more careful, he wouldn't have caused the accident. but: He wouldn't have caused the accident if he had been more careful. (no comma)
- Conditionals are usually introduced by if. Other expressions are: unless (=if not), providing, provided (that), as long as, in case, on condition (that), but for + -ing form/noun, otherwise, or else, what if, supposing, even if, only if. Unless you work more efficiently, you'll be fired.
I will do it only if you promise not to tell anyone.
- After "if" we normally use were instead of was for all persons in conditionals type 2 in formal English. If I were/was you, I would tell her everything.
- We do not normally use will, would or should in if-clauses. If you want this, you can have it. (not: ~~if you will want~~) However, will, would or should can be used in if-clauses to make a request or express annoyance, doubt/uncertainty or insistence. If he should come, show him in. (doubt/uncertainty - I doubt that he will come ...) If you will/would be more patient, I'll be with you in a minute. (request - Will you please be more patient?)
