

1. Fill in the gaps:

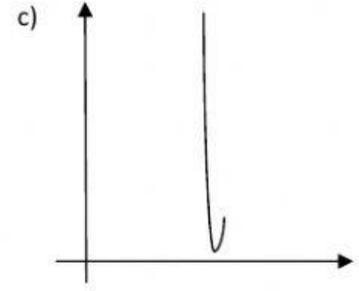

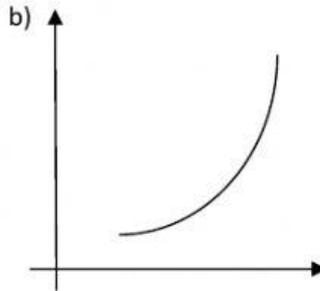

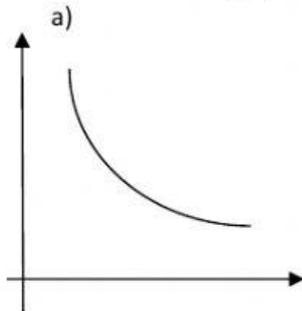

The supply of one producer is called an _____ supply.

All the goods and services meant for sale are the _____ supply.

The supply of one product by more producers is called _____ supply.

The supply is determined by the _____ and the supply curve is _____.

2. Choose the graph depicting a supply curve:

3. An introduction of a new way of manufacturing helping the producer to produce more causes

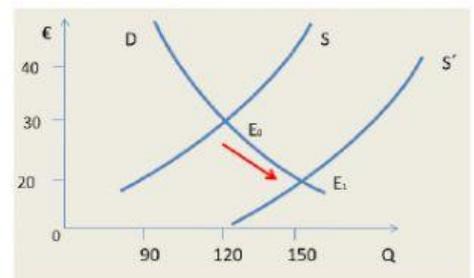

- the shift of the demand curve to the left
- the increase in the price of the goods
- the shift of the supply curve to the right
- the shift of the supply curve to the left

4. Which of the following factors will not cause a shift of the supply curve?

- input price increase
- introducing subsidies
- decrease in consumer income
- expanding the market

5. The equilibrium in the sunflower market has shifted from E_0 to E_1 . What could have caused the shift?

- income increase in the population shifting the demand
- bad weather changing the supply
- good weather changing the supply
- tax increase for companies

6. The graphs are showing the supply and demand of exercise books. Which of them is showing the fact that the price of paper has increased?

