

WEATHER AROUND THE WORLD

Wellington, the capital city of New Zealand, is next to the sea between two islands. This means the weather is always windy. Some places have weather that usually changes. For example, in London it is usually cool, but in one day it sometimes changes from sunny to cloudy to rainy. In some places the weather rarely changes. In Bangkok from November to May, it is usually sunny, but from June to October it usually rains. However, it is always hot (about 30 C) and it never snows.

1. Read the text and underline the frequency adverbs.

2. Answer these questions:

a. What is the capital city of New Zealand?

b. How often is it windy in the capital?

c. How is the weather usually in London?

d. Which months are usually sunny in Bangkok?

e. How is the weather usually in July in Bangkok?

f. How often does it snow in Bangkok?
