Third Conditional

Read the following paragraphs of the story. Then, drag and drop each paragraph in their corresponding order on the right side.
When you finish. Think of a possible title for the story and type it on the space provided.

While she was waiting, she went to buy a book. She was so preoccupied with her difficult morning that she walked out of the shop without paying and was arrested by the police.

- -

One mile from the airport the taxi broke down. She tried to flag down another, but they were all taken and so she ran the rest of the way.

- -

When she got to the airport, she realized she had forgotten her passport. So, she jumped in a taxi and returned home. She grabbed her passport from the coffee table, got in a taxi and went back to the airport.

- -

The police detained her for three hours and she missed her flight again. Sarah went home and decided never to fly again!

- -

When she arrived at the airport, she saw that she had missed her flight. She had to pay 500 dollars for another ticket for the next flight.

- -

Sarah had to be at the airport for her flight at 9 am, but her alarm didn't go off and she overslept. She got dressed very quickly, threw everything into her suitcase and ran out of the house.

LIVEWORKSHEETS