ROBOTS

Some experts believe that robots will be able to do jobs, which at the moment only human beings can do; however, there are also others who disagree. One London Company, UAS has already developed machines that can be employed as 'home - helps' for old people unable to look after themselves and who are living on their own. These machines can now carry out such things as cook eggs and clean the floor, and the company says that future models will be directed by simple voice instructions and controlled by a 'brain'. Yet it is believed that we have a long way to go before we can develop truly intelligent machines.

Glossary:    expert: a person very skilled at doing something, specialist = chuyên gia
                  to look after: to care for, to take care of = chăm sóc
                  to carry out: to do = làm, thực hiện
                  instruction: direction = hướng dẫn, chỉ dẫn

1. We understand from the passage that although robots can do certain jobs _____
A. old people are still unable to look after themselves.
B. these cannot be done by human beings.
C. there are few others which cannot be done by robots.
D. there are still many others which can only be done by human beings.
2. The word 'employed' in the text is closest in meaning to _____
A. known    B. used
C. developed    D. directed
3. The word 'others' refer to _____
A. other experts    B. other robots
C. other human beings    D. other jobs
4. The London company hopes to make a robot soon _____
A. that will respond to spoken orders.
B. with a simple voice.
C. which will give simple instructions.
D. to clean the floor of old people.
5. We can infer from the passage that in developing intelligent robots _____
A. man has made big advances.
B. we have few problems left.
C. there are many great problems to overcome.
D. scientists should agree with each other.

B. Choose TRUE or FALSE

- ① The word robot was first used in 1920 in a play by the Czech writer Karel Capek, who wrote science fiction. It comes from robota. A Czech word which means 'hard work'.
- ② The first robot you could programme to perform useful tasks was Unimate, which was invented by George Devol in 1954. He sold it to General Motors, an American car company which used the robot to lift hot pieces of metal.
- ③ In the 1990s, robots started exploring dangerous places. A robot called Dante, which was controlled by experts in the United States, went inside the Erebus volcano in Antarctica; and the Sojourner rover, which was designed by the National Aeronautics and Space Administration (NASA), went to Mars.

- ④ The Roomba is the first really successful robotic vacuum cleaner. Its makers have sold over eight million of them. People I know who hate doing housework just love this machine.
- ⑤ In 2012, a robot which was able to move its arms, hands and fingers in exactly the same way as a human became the first robot in space. The 'robonaut', which was developed by NASA, can perform dangerous tasks people can't do.
