

Be going to or Present Continuous

We use be going to for plans or intentions

We use Present Continuous for arrangements in the Future

Fill the gaps with the Present Continuous or be going to:

1. A: What are your plans for this summer?

B: I (travel) abroad. Right now I'm checking the flights.

2. A: Would you like to watch a film tonight?

B: I'm sorry, I can't. I (meet) my sister at the airport.

3. John has a terrible toothache, so he (see) his dentist tomorrow at 3 pm, it has already been arranged.

4. My friend (graduate) this June, so we (celebrate) somewhere.

5. A: How (you, get) there? Have you booked the tickets yet?

B: Yes, of course we have. We (fly) to London on Wednesday at 10 am, then we (stay) at our friends' place, after that we (take) the train to Manchester on Thursday.

6. The sky looks so dark, I think it (rain).

7. A: What (you, get) her for her birthday?

B: I'm not quite sure yet, I think I (buy) her a cake.
