

WORLD WAR ONE

Directions: Use the words in the word bank below, input the correct word to complet the sentences below.

1914	1919	advanced	assassination	Central Powers	civilians	communist
diplomatic	empires	global	inevitable	July	republic	submarines

The First World War was the first (1) ..... and one of the deadliest conflicts in history. It paved the way for major political changes, including revolutions in many of the nations involved. Although there were a number of causes for the war, the (2) ..... of Austrian Archduke Franz Ferdinand in June (3) ..... was the trigger. In the following (4) ..... Crisis the European powers failed to find a (5) ..... solution to the conflict. They seemed to accept the war as (6) .....

The fight between the Allies and the (7) ..... turned out to be the first modern war making use of the most (8) ..... technology like machine guns, tanks, poison gas, (9) ..... and aircraft. The effect was devastating. Over 9 million soldiers died. More were injured —many of them were left permanently disabled.

The violence and blockades of the war also led to the deaths of millions of (10) ..... and the large-scale destruction of property and land. Politically the war had far-reaching consequences.

The international system was totally transformed. Germany became a (11) ..... a (12) ..... Soviet Union emerged, America became a world power and Britain started a slow decline. At the peace conferences of (13) ..... the German, Turkish, and Austro-Hungarian (14) ..... were broken up. New boundaries were drawn in Europe and the Middle East, boundaries —as in Iraq and Kuwait -which were still intact at the end of the century.

KEY to WORLD WAR ONE

The First World War was the first global and one of the deadliest conflicts in history. It paved the way for major political changes, including revolutions in many of the nations involved. Although there were a number of causes for the war, the assassination of Austrian Archduke Franz Ferdinand in June 1914 was the trigger. In the following July Crisis the European powers failed to find a diplomatic solution to the conflict. They seemed to accept the war as inevitable.

The fight between the Allies and the Central Powers turned out to be the first modern war making use of the most advanced technology like machine guns, tanks, poison gas, submarines and aircraft. The effect was devastating. Over 9 million soldiers died. More were injured —many of them were left permanently disabled.

The violence and blockades of the war also led to the deaths of millions of civilians and the large-scale destruction of property and land. Politically the war had far-reaching consequences.

The international system was totally transformed. Germany became a republic, a communist Soviet Union emerged, America became a world power and Britain started a slow decline. At the peace conferences of 1919, the German, Turkish, and Austro-Hungarian empires were broken up. New boundaries were drawn in Europe and the Middle East, boundaries —as in Iraq and Kuwait -which were still intact at the end of the century.

RUSSIAN REVOLUTION and STALINISM

Directions: Complete the text below with an appropriate word.

By the end of the 19th (1) ..... , Russia had been a vast empire ruled by tsars. When Tsar Nicholas II took power, the social (2) ..... was dramatic, with the lower class living in poverty and suffering difficult situations, whereas the upper class lived unworried in luxury. This injustice led to the first social movement resulting in the creation of a national assembly called the (3) ..... . The power was now divided between the Tsar and the people's representatives, but the assembly had limited powers.

Only less than a decade later, World War One broke out, and the country sank into a new crisis. Factory workers had to endure horrible (4) ..... conditions, wartime inflation caused prices to (5) ..... , causing the already scarce food and goods supply to be unaffordable. Most peasants did not own the (6) ..... they farmed, causing more resentment towards the government. The losses and casualties during World War One led people to believe Tsar Nicholas II was incompetent. Due to his son, Alexei's hemophilia, the questionable (7) ..... was called on to heal him. Russian citizens did not trust Nicholas' wife and Rasputin to run the country while the Tsar fought the war.

On February 28, 1917, (8) ..... , workers, students, and even soldiers, that had been ordered to suppress the movement, started a revolution and Tsar Nicholas II was asked to abdicate the (9) ..... . A provisional (10) ..... took over, led by Alexander Kerensky. With the imperial power officially dissolved, the Russian people could finally hope for a government based on democracy and justice. However, the new government supported the (11) ..... , upsetting the army and the country and the soviets ((12) ..... ) controlled the military, transport and communication systems.

In October 1917 Lenin, who strongly opposed what he called the imperialist war, led the (13) ..... in the October Revolution under the slogans, "Peace, Land, (14) ..... !" and "All power to the Soviets!" and toppled the provisional government. He was elected the head of the Bolshevik party and led the new Russian government through a (15) ..... war against all of its anti-Communist enemies. The Reds, or the Bolsheviks, defeated the (16) ..... or the anti-Communists.

Stalinism

After Lenin's (17) ..... Stalin rose to power through the use of political alliances to pit his enemies against each other. He would align with one group to discredit another and then separate himself from the group to discredit it. Stalin became the head of the Communist Party in 1928. He believed in "Communism in one (18) ..... " instead of Lenin's idea to spread communism abroad. He changed Lenin's economic policy to his own (19) ..... -year plan that designated the desired economic goals for the Russian economy for the next five years. Stalin prioritized the development of the heavy (20) ..... on the one hand and the collectivization of farms on the other. Stalin became a dictator and turned the USSR in a (21) ..... state where he used terror and violence against all his opponents. He had thousands of people executed and sent millions of people to (1) ..... camps.

KEY to RUSSIAN REVOLUTION and STALINISM

Directions: Complete the text below with an appropriate word.

By the end of the 19th century, Russia had been a vast empire ruled by tsars. When Tsar Nicholas II took power, the social inequality was dramatic, with the lower class living in poverty and suffering difficult situations, whereas the upper class lived unworried in luxury. This injustice led to the first social movement resulting in the creation of a national assembly called the Duma. The power was now divided between the Tsar and the people's representatives, but the assembly had limited powers.

Only less than a decade later, World War One broke out, and the country sank into a new crisis. Factory workers had to endure horrible working conditions, wartime inflation caused prices to rise, causing the already scarce food and goods supply to be unaffordable. Most peasants did not own the land they farmed, causing more resentment towards the government. The losses and casualties during World War One led people to believe Tsar Nicholas II was incompetent. Due to his son, Alexei's hemophilia, the questionable Rasputin was called on to heal him. Russian citizens did not trust Nicholas' wife and Rasputin to run the country while the Tsar fought the war.

On February 28, 1917, women, workers, students, and even soldiers, that had been ordered to suppress the movement, started a revolution and Tsar Nicholas II was asked to abdicate the throne. A provisional government took over, led by Alexander Kerensky. With the imperial power officially dissolved, the Russian people could finally hope for a government based on democracy and justice. However, the new government supported the war, upsetting the army and the country and the sovjets (councils) controlled the military, transport and communication systems.

In October 1917 Lenin, who strongly opposed what he called the imperialist war, led the Bolsheviks in the October Revolution under the slogans, "Peace, Land, Bread!" and "All power to the Soviets!" and toppled the provisional government. He was elected the head of the Bolshevik party and led the new Russian government through a civil war against all of its anti-Communist enemies. The Reds, or the Bolsheviks, defeated the Whites or the anti-Communists.

Stalinism

After Lenin's death Stalin rose to power through the use of political alliances to pit his enemies against each other. He would align with one group to discredit another and then separate himself from the group to discredit it. Stalin became the head of the Communist Party in 1928. He believed in "Communism in one country" instead of Lenin's idea to spread communism abroad. He changed Lenin's economic policy to his own five-year plan that designated the desired economic goals for the Russian economy for the next five years. Stalin prioritized the development of the heavy industry on the one hand and the collectivization of farms on the other. Stalin became a dictator and turned the USSR in a totalitarian state where he used terror and violence against all his opponents. He had thousands of people executed and sent millions of people to labour camps.

