

Reading Homework:

Kwan and her mother were at the airport. They had already gotten their boarding passes, gone through security, and found their gate. Now they were just waiting for their flight to take off.

There was a snack food store close to their gate, and Kwan had $5.00 in her pocket that she had earned by helping a neighbor clean out his garage. Kwan turned to her mom to ask if she could go to the snack store, but her mom was on the phone. And her mom absolutely HATED to be interrupted.

Kwan decided that she would make a quick trip to the snack store for a drink. She quickly walked to the store, grabbed a soda, and paid for it. Then she headed back to her seat where she thought her mom would be waiting for her.

When she got to their gate, her mom wasn't there! Kwan walked up and down the rows carefully checking each chair, but her mom was nowhere to be found. Kwan didn't know what to do.

To make things worse, their plane started boarding! Kwan knew she shouldn't get on the plane without her mom, but she didn't know how to find her! Kwan started to cry. A boy sitting near her pointed at Kwan and laughed, which only made Kwan cry harder.

Just as Kwan was losing all hope, she heard a familiar voice yelling, "Kwan! Kwan! Where are you?"

Kwan saw her mom running frantically towards her gate with a security guard in tow. "That's her!" Kwan's mom cried. "Thank goodness she's here!"

Kwan and her mom boarded their plane just in the nick of time. Kwan told her mom what she had done, and promised never to do it again.
