Companies spend huge amounts of money on consumerism / advertising / persuasion. Their aim is to consume / persuade / waste us that we need what they are selling. In some cases adverts target a particular group of advertisers / consumers / shops, such as teenagers – who then pressurise their parents to buy the product. We may want the products, but do we really need them? Buying things we don't need or use is an expense / a slogan / a waste of money. We should make sure that we have enough to pay for the basic necessities / expenses / shops and try not to be tempted by clever consumers / slogans / persuasion.
