Saving the rainforests of South America

Every day, thousands and thousands of trees are cut down in the Amazonian Rainforest. This does enormous damage to the local environment, and also possibly affects the world's climate. But how can we save up the rainforest from destruction? First of all, we have to make the local people aware that of the damage to they're doing. Secondly, there need to be more police in the area preventing people from cutting down trees. A lot of the people who cut them down do it illegally. If there are more afraid of getting caught, they might stop. It's a very serious about problem, and there's no easy solution, but we're short of time. It won't be long before the rainforests disappear completely.	25. _____
