Born in 1911, Fauja Singh grew up in India, where he got married and had children. He worked as a farmer before he moved to London in the 1990s. Most elderly people want a quiet life, but not Mr Singh. At the age of 89, he started running marathons. It's hard to believe that he couldn't walk properly as a child because of a weakness in his legs. He retired from running at the age of 101. Perhaps his body asked, 'Please can I stop running now?'

10 Akrit Jaswal was never really a toddler – he could walk and talk before he was one. By the age of five, he could read and write fluently. He loved Biology and doctors at his local hospital said he could watch their operations. Akrit did his first operation at the age of seven,
15 and at twelve he went to university.

As a child, Alma Deutcher learned music very easily. She could play the 20 piano when she was two, and started violin lessons at three. When Alma was seven, she wrote
25 an opera. Millions of people watched her playing it on YouTube. She is an inspiration to all 30 young musicians.
