The ¹st__nn__ng Dingle Peninsula, sticking out into the Atlantic Ocean, is one of the most ²d__l__ghtf__l regions in Ireland. Only 320 km from Dublin, it is famous for its ³s__gn__f__c__nt archaeological sites and is one of the least densely populated areas in the country. Castlegregory (population 205!), located on the north coast between Tralee and Dingle is ⁴p__rf__ct for walking. You can also wander along the ⁵s__p__rb sandy beaches along the water's edge or explore the ⁶__xc__pt__ __n__l Maharee islands. Why not try the ⁷cl__ss__c walk up Mount Brandon, the second highest mountain in Ireland. From its summit, you can enjoy ⁸br__ __t__ht__k__ng views of the Blasket Islands, a tiny group of islands just off the coast. However, due to its closeness to the Atlantic, you might experience bad weather conditions as the weather can change suddenly, so make sure you're warmly dressed!
