FUTURE TENSE: WILL

One of the most common ways to talk about the future is with will.

For example: I will call you tonight.

I'll call you tonight.

Will + Infinitive Form of the Verb

1. Will: no prior plan

We use will when there is no prior plan or decision to do something before we speak. We make the decision at the time of speaking. Look at these examples:

- Hold on. I'll get a pen.
- We will see what we can do to help you.

- Maybe we'll stay in and watch television tonight.

In these examples, we had no firm plan before speaking. The decision is made at the time of speaking.

We often use "will" with the verb "to think":

- I think I will go to the gym tomorrow.
- I think I'll have a holiday next year.
- I don't think I'll buy that car.

2. Will: prediction

We often use "will" to make a prediction about the future. Again, there is no firm plan. We are saying what we think will happen. Here are some examples:

- It will rain tomorrow.
- People won't go to Jupiter before the 22nd century.

3. Will + to be

The verb "to be" is an exception with "will". Even when we have a very firm plan, and we are not speaking spontaneously, we can use "will" with "to be". Look at these examples:

- I will be in London tomorrow.
- There will be 50 people at the party.
- The meeting will be at 9.30 am.
