

Mega Goal 4 Question Bank Part Three Reading Comprehension

We all know that French fries are not really French, so why do we call them as such? Do you know? In America, a French fry refers to all forms of sliced potato cooked by any method.

People enjoy eating French fries because they are salty, crunchy and delicious. Other parts of the world, the term French fry is used only to describe the thinly sliced style of fries. The thicker cut typically called chips which are pan fried in a frying pan.

In Saudi Arabia, there is increasing trend of French fries use. In French, 'frite' means the process of deep frying a food. So, by adding the word French before our fry, it denotes what type of fried potato product we're actually talking about skinny and deep fried vs. fat and pan fried.

French fries are served hot and generally eaten a side dish with lunch or dinner. They are topped with other things including vinegar or mayonnaise. Belgium consumes the most fries and they are basically their national dish.

Thomas Jefferson had "potatoes served in the French manner at a White House dinner in 1802. Keeping children away French fries is a difficult task for parents. Al Forsan Schools, teachers always give advice about the dangers of overeating them.

Choose the Correct Answer

1- The main idea of paragraph two is.....

- a. French fry means differently from country to another
- b. French fry comes from France
- c. French fry means sliced potatoes
- d. French fries and chips are the same in meaning

2. The pronoun "them" in paragraph 5 refers to.....

- a. Vinegar and mayonnaise
- b. Al Forsan Schools
- c- ketchup and chips
- d. French fries

3- It is to keep children away from French fries.

- a- not easy
- b- easy
- c- frying
- d- French

4- French fries are not really French .

- a) True
- b) False

5- French fries are not served as a supplement with lunch or dinner

- a) True
- b) False

Best wishes
Yours
Mr. AL AM

