When world leaders came together in 2015 to adopt the sustainable development goals we all knew the challenge ahead of us.

And we've _____ progress, but it has been hard-won, uneven and fragile.

The Covid 19 pandemic has shown us just how fragile. Today humanity _____ a stark and urgent choice. Do we allow these fractures to grow or do we break through to a greener, safer and more equitable future?

At Economist Impact we're dedicated to driving positive change by using data and evidence to better understand the biggest issues and evaluate the best solutions. And we've been closely tracking action on the SDGs.

Today, as we explore progress against the sustainable development goals, let's remember we know what we have to do and we have the tools. The question is, do we have _____ to act and _____ the promise of agenda 2030?

Let's start with goal 1 - eliminating _____ poverty by 2030.

In just 18 months the Covid 19 pandemic erased five years' worth of progress, pushing more than 97 million people back into _____ poverty. If we don't _____ action now to write our course, we risk arriving at 2030 with more than 600 million people living in _____ poverty.
