THE OX AND THE DONKEY

Long ago a farmer had an ox and a donkey. He used the ox to plough his field and also pull his cart. The ox felt very tired. It was sad.

The donkey gave a plan to escape hard work. After day the ox acts to be ill didn't eat grass and didn't drink water.

The farmer thought the ox was ill so, he took the donkey to plough his field. The donkey found the work too hard. In the evening the donkey met the ox.

The donkey said "our master sell you to a butcher if you don't get well tomorrow". The next day the ox got up early and waited for his master. He took the ox to his field.

The donkey escaped the hard work. It was very clever indeed.
