4. Task. What are the steps of job search? Read about different ways of job search. Share your opinion about the following list. Do you agree that the best strategy to get the job is to use all the strategies?

- Newspaper advertisements. This is one of the easiest and most useful ways of researching interview possibilities. However, want ads can be misleading. In the career world, the best jobs often don't reach newspapers, which mean that you get a limited sense of the jobs that are available.
- Career centers. Information about the kinds of jobs that are available is sometimes limited by the relationship between a college or university and certain employers.
- Recruiting firms. The best thing about recruiting firms is that they advertise jobs that are actually open. If your employment experiences are not an exact match for the positions available, you may have difficulties using a recruiting firm.
- The Internet. There are some important things to keep in mind about the Web. First, competition is extremely stiff. You should also note that your resume might need to be written and presented in a particular way.
- Going to events sponsored by companies or industries that interest you with the express purpose of meeting new people to network with.
- Networking. One of the most useful resources to get the job is the people you know: college peers, friends and family, or people from your past, such as high school teachers or community leaders. Even the contacts you made in certain clubs or activities in high school can be helpful.
