THE PIOUS CAT

There was an old cat. It can't move fast. It can't catch any rat. It was quite.

The king of rats saw the cat. The king of rats asked the cat "Why are you so quite?" the cat said "I am very pious. I don't eat meat at all. Let your rats come here and get my blessings every day".

The king of rats believed the cat's words. The king of rats tells to all rats. They went to the cat in a line.

The cat behaved as if he was blessing the rats one by one. He touches each rat with his paw. But he caught the last one in the line and ate it up.

This went on some weeks. The king of rats guessed that cat killed the last rat in the line every day.

The next day the king of rats went last in the line. As usual the cat blessed all. Try to catch last one the king of rats. The king of rats quickly took a knife and pushed into the throat. The cat fell dead.
