

Listen to the audio as many times as you need to, and then fill in the blanks.

The Internet has _____ the convenience of _____ at our leisure in the _____ of our home. For _____, the attractions of shopping can _____ into an _____. Experts _____ that _____ shopping can _____ into a mental _____. Researchers from the Hannover Medical School have termed the illness "Buying Shopping _____" (BSD). Researchers say the _____ profession should recognize it as an illness, not just as one of various "impulse control" disorders. Dr Astrid Müller said: "It really is _____ to...accumulate further _____ about BSD on the Internet."

Dr Müller and her _____ conducted research on _____ studies on shopping involving 122 _____ who sought _____ for BSD. Dr Müller said five percent of people might _____ from BSD. She added that _____ people are more _____ to develop it. They also have _____ levels of _____ and _____. People with BSD exhibit negative _____. These include buying _____ things they don't need, keeping and never using things they _____, buying things for instant gratification, and ending up in _____. BSD can destroy _____, relationships and _____ health.