Read the following passage and mark the letter A,B,C or D on your answer sheet to indicate the correct answer to each of the questions from 39 to 45.

ACADEMICS AREN'T THE PROBLEM.

Studies about how students use their time might shed light on whether they face increased academic and financial pressures compared with earlier eras.

Based on data about how students are spending time, academic or financial pressures don't seem to be greater now than a generation ago.

The data show that full-time students in all types of colleges study much less now than they did a generation ago - a full 10 hours a week less. Students are also receiving significantly higher grades. So it appears that academic pressures are, in fact, considerably lower than they used to be.

The time-use data don't suggest that students feel greater financial pressures, either. When the time savings and lower opportunity costs are factored in, college appears less expensive for most students than it was in the 1960s. And though there are now full-time students working to pay while in college, they study less even when paid work choices are held constantly.

In other words, full-time students do not appear to be studying less in order to work more. They appear to be studying less and spending the extra time on leisure activities or fun. It seems hard to imagine that students feeling increased financial pressures would respond by taking more leisure.

Based on how students are spending their time then, it doesn't look as though academic or financial pressures are greater now than a generation ago. The time-use data don't speak directly to social pressures, and it may well be that these have become more intense lately.

In one recent set of data, students reported spending more than 23 hours per week either socializing with friends or playing on the computer for fun. Social activities, in person or on computer, would seem to have become the major focus of campus life. It is hard to tell what kinds of pressures would be associated with this change.

Question 39: The study's conclusion that students' workload now is not greater than before is based on_____.

- A. what students achieve with greater load
- B. how students spend their time
- C. how students work through college
- D. what college demands from students

Question 40: Research studies have shown that pressures put on students nowadays are _____.

- A. not greater than the past
- B. getting ever greater
- C. much greater than the past
- D. more diversified

Question41: According to the author, the fact that students have more time for leisure is a proof that_____.

- A. financial pressure on students is not a problem
- B. academic work disinterests them
- C. they are active with extra-curricular activities
- D. they cannot find extra jobs

Question42: he word "focus" in the last paragraph can be replaced with_____.

- A. central activity

- D. graduate students' workload

Read the following passage and mark the letter A, B, C or D on your answer sheet to indicate the correct answer to each of the numbered blanks from 46 to 50.

People commonly complain that they never have enough time to accomplish tasks. The hours and minutes seem to slip away before many planned chores get done. According to time management experts, the main reason for this is that most people fail to set priorities about what to do first. They get tied down by trivial, time-consuming matters and never complete the important ones.

One simple solution often used by those at the top is to keep lists of tasks to be accomplished daily. These lists order jobs from most essential to least essential and are checked regularly through the day to assess progress. Not only is this an effective way to manage time, but also it serves to give individuals a much-deserved sense of satisfaction over their achievements. People who do not keep lists often face the end of the work day with uncertainty over the significance of their accomplishments, which over time can contribute to serious problems in mental and physical health

Question 46: Which of the following is the best title for the passage?

- A. Common Complaints About Work
- B. Accomplishing Trivial Matters
- C. Achieving Job Satisfaction
- D. Learning to Manage Time

Question 47: According to the passage, why do many people never seem to have enough time to accomplish things?

- A. They do not prioritize tasks.
- B. They get tied down by one difficult problem

- D. They do not seek the advice of time management experts

Question 48: In paragraph 2, the word those refers to _____.

- A. daily lists
- B. trivial matters
- C. priorities
- D. people

Question 49: The passage states that one solution to time management problems is to _____.

- A. consult a time management expert
- B. accomplish time-consuming matters first
- C. keep daily lists of priorities and check them regularly
- D. spend only a short time on each task

Question 50: The paragraph following the passage most probably discusses _____.

- A. mental and physical health problems
- B. another solution to time management problems
- C. ways to achieve a sense of fulfilment
- D. different types of lists
