rockets float planets Space Station launch

My name is Jacob and I'm an astronaut. I live and work on the International Space Station (ISS). I wanted to become an astronaut when I saw the first images of the ISS in 1998. I was a little boy then and wanted to learn about life in space. My job is to study the Earth, its environment, and other planets. I float around in space because there's no gravity here. I bring food to us every six months. I love my job.
