

We

She

you

They

It

Diagram of a Helium atom (He) with a single electron in the 1s orbital. The nucleus is represented by a blue circle with a plus sign, and the electron is represented by a red dot in the 1s orbital.

You

Personal Pronouns

The illustrations show a boy in a green shirt and blue pants using personal pronouns in various contexts:

- Top left: The boy says "I" while looking at himself.
- Top right: The boy says "We" while pointing to a family consisting of a grandfather, a mother, and a sister.
- Middle left: The boy says "You" while pointing at a girl with red hair.
- Middle center: The boy says "He" while pointing at a boy.
- Middle right: The boy says "She" while pointing at a girl.
- Bottom left: The boy says "He" while pointing at a grandfather.
- Bottom center-left: The boy says "It" while pointing at a cat.
- Bottom center-right: The boy says "They" while gesturing towards a family (mother, sister, and grandfather).

