V. READING COMPREHENSION (0.5 pt)

Read the passage below and choose the best answer for each question.

One of the most important discoveries of the nineteenth century was a method of using natural gas for cooking and heating. Large amounts of natural gas are found in the United States, usually several thousand feet below the surface of the earth. Natural gas is most often found in places where petroleum, the oil from which gasoline is made, is found. Often the natural gas must be removed before the oil itself can be reached.

For many years after natural gas was first discovered, it was thought to have no value. Finally, however, people began to understand its use and to find ways of storing it and moving it from place to place. Today natural gas is stored in large tanks and used for lighting, cooking and heating. It has also been used for electric generators and hybrid cars recently. In many ways natural gas is one of our finest fuels. It can be used for cooking without making the room hot. It is cheap and can be moved easily from one place to another through long pipelines, some of which are hundreds of miles in length.

76. It can be inferred from the passage that _____.
   A. natural gas is useless
   B. people once wasted natural gas
   C. natural gas is moved in trucks

III. READING COMPREHENSION. (1 pts)

Read the passage carefully and choose the correct answer: True (T), False (F), No information (NI)

Camping is an activity in which people live temporarily in the outdoors. Campers participate in fishing, hunting, swimming, plant studying, wildlife watching and natural photography. It provides physical benefits when its involves hiking to, from and around the campsite, and many people believe that camping makes youngsters feel more confident.

People throughout the world enjoy hiking to wildness campsites. This activity is called backpacking because it involves carrying such essential camping gear as a tent, food, clothing, and sleeping bag called backpack. Backpacking is the best suited for those who are in good physical condition as it may require walking several miles.

The key to any enjoyable camping trip is planning. A decision on where to camp depends on personal preference, but planning the trip before leaving helps campers avoid preventable accidents. Many situations – bad weather, injury, or a crowded campsite – are less alarming if campers are prepared.

V. Identify and correct a mistake in each line in the following passage.

SAVING ENERGY

Many people still believe that natural resources will never be used up. Actual, the world's energy resources are limited. Nobody know exactly how much fuel is left. However, we also should use them economically and try finding out alternative sources of power. According for Professor Marvin Burnham of the New England Institute of Technology, we have to start conserving coal, oil and gas before it is very late; and nuclear power is the only alternative. However, many people do not approve of using nuclear power because of it's very dangerous. What would happen whether there were a serious nuclear accident? Radioactivity causes cancer and may bad affect the future generations. The more effective thing is that we should use natural resources as economical as possible.
