

British newspapers

Listen to the audio and fill in with the names of newspapers:

«Daily Mirror», «Daily Mail», «Sunday Express», «The Sun», «The Sun», «Daily Express», «The Mail on Sunday», «Daily Star», «Sunday People», «Daily Mirror», «Daily Mirror», «Daily Mail», «Daily Mail», «Sunday Mirror», «Daily Express», «Daily Star», «Daily Star».

Popular newspapers are called tabloids. They are cheaper and smaller in size. Tabloids have more pictures and shorter articles, often about less important events or about the private lives of well-known people. Tabloids are called the "Red Tops" because their logos are red.

The most popular tabloids are , ,
..... and

..... publishes the latest news of showbusiness, sport and celebrity gossip. , and

..... are considered "middle market".

focuses on stories about celebrities, sport, news, gossip. It publishes information about popular TV programmes, such as soap operas and reality TV shows.

..... contains weather forecast, crosswords, lots of pictures, celebrity gossip, news, films and sports reviews, articles about fashion and travel.

..... is a daily national conservative tabloid newspaper. The content is mostly gossip, sensational national and international news.

..... focuses on crime, sensational news, travelling, gossip, business.

..... contains popular articles on celebrities, with much gossip and many photographs. offers "true life" stories and features. and are similar to their daily equivalents in style and content.