

Valencia has a little bit of _____. old meets new on the Mediterranean coast of one of Spain's most _____ cities. Founded as a Roman colony in 138 BC the city is rich in history and culture located on the east coast of Spain _____ kilometers east of Madrid and _____ kilometers south of Barcelona, Valencia is the third most _____ city in Spain with nearly 1 million inhabitants in the city.

Valencia has a relatively dry subtropical Mediterranean climate with very mild winters and long hot summers making it a great destination to visit all year long _____ for those eager to get away from harsh winters the city offers a wide variety of attractions to please even the pickiest of travelers.

The City of Arts and Sciences will leave you breathless as its modern architecture is said to be the _____ in the world. More architecture can be admired throughout the city: at the port there is the Veles e Vents. In the old city center, you can see the silk exchange, the Valencia _____ and the Central _____ just to name a few.

Valencia is quickly becoming a foodie capital as it is home to many Michelin star restaurants, taking advantage of the high-quality ingredients produced in the region. Oh, a trip to Valencia without trying the paella would be a major error since it is the birthplace of this _____ Spanish _____.

If you want to work off some of that food you ate, be sure to visit the Turia _____ one of Spain's _____ urban _____. It runs through the city along nine kilometers of green space offering foot, bike paths, leisure and sports areas.

_____ are one of the major reasons visitors come to Valencia. So, a couple of days soaking in some rays at one of the city's nearby _____ should not be missed.

Museum lovers will be happy to hear there are several museums worth visiting such as the Fine Arts Museum ceramics museum, the Science Museum, Europe's _____ aquarium and much more. And for the party people, Valencia offers an _____ nightlife scene especially in the new trendy Ruzafa barrio filled with _____ art studios cafes bars and restaurants. So, what are you waiting for? Come visit Valencia!

