The Best Tiger Dad

Most of the time, tiger moms take care of the young. But one day Curt the tiger heard a cry. In a hurry, he ran to see what it was. There, in a den next to a big fern, sat three cubs.

"No need to curl up in fright," said Curt. They were dirty and their fur was wet. The cubs had not been fed in a long time. Their mom was not there: she was gone. In a whirl of fear, Curt ran to catch them some dinner.
