THE DAILY PRESS

A Python Scare!

By JESSICA LEE

jessica.lee@dailypress.com.my

TAIPING, Wednesday: A pupil from SJK Sin Tat had a scare of his life when he found a python coiled around his legs. Jason had just returned home from tuition. He was very tired. He had lots of homework to do, but for now all he wanted to do was to have a relaxing evening at home. He quickly opened the door with the key. There was no one at home although it was 5 p.m.

He plopped down on the sofa and turned on the TV. His eyes began to droop and soon, he was fast asleep. Suddenly, Jason felt like his legs were being squeezed. He opened his eyes and was shocked to see a huge python coiling around his legs. He tried to free himself but it held him tight. "I was confused and frightened as there was no one at home," said Reggie.

However, he was lucky as he was able to reach for the cordless phone. He quickly dialled 999 for help and told the person his problem. By that time, the python was slithering upwards towards his face.

Soon, Jason heard a siren. He felt relieved as help was on its way. Two firefighters broke the door. They were armed with snake tongs. The jabbed the sides of the python. Slowly, the python began to loosen its grip on Jason and slithered away. The firefighters quickly caught it and put it in a sack. It will be sent to the zoo.

Jason's parents came home as soon as they were informed by the neighbours. "All I wanted to do was to have a bath and sleep," said Jason. "It was frightening and disgusting coming face-to-face with a python."
