Detective: So, Miss... tell me exactly what happened.

Tracy: While I was washing my hair, the doorbell rang. I got a towel, went to the door and opened it.

Detective: And what did you see?

Tracy: There was a clown standing there.

Detective: A clown, you say.

Tracy: Yes.

Detective: What did he look like?

Tracy: He was short and slim.

Detective: What was he wearing?

Tracy: He was wearing a colorful shirt and a big hat on top of a blond wig. And he was carrying a violin case.

Detective: When did all this happen?

Tracy: About twenty minutes ago.

Detective: OK. So what happened next?

Tracy: He took a fiddle out of the case and started playing it.

Detective: Do you remember what he played?

Tracy: Are you kidding? I was too scared.

Detective: Were you scared of the clown? Why?

Tracy: Well, I was alone in the apartment. I asked him what this was all about but he didn't say a word. He just looked at me in a very strange way.

Detective: Why didn't you close the door?

Tracy: I tried, but his foot was blocking it. I was very frightened.

Detective: And then what happened?
