Yesterday evening, Jim and Beth Smith weren't at home. It was Jim's birthday and they were having dinner at a restaurant. While they were out, a man got into their house through the bathroom window. The man put a computer into a black bag. Then he went upstairs to the bedroom and took Beth's jewels. While he was coming downstairs, he heard a voice speaking.

"Hello, who are you?" the voice said.

The man couldn't see the speaker and he was very frightened. He dropped the bag and ran out of the front door into the street. He was getting into his car when a neighbour saw him. She was taking her dog for a walk in the street. She immediately called the police.

When Mr and Mrs Smith got home later, a police officer was waiting for them. They invited him into the house. When they opened the front door, their grey parrot, Matilda, said: "Hello, who are you?"
