

LAST WEEK AT WORK

Read the following paragraph

Yesterday, I was talking with my husband about last week at work. Last week was very tiring because I was in charge of a big project that the company was developing. I had to prepare everything just in two weeks. It was a challenge, but it was satisfying that I could finish the project. I've worked for this company since 10 years ago. I started as a secretary and now, I am a supervisor. I am in charge of some employees and I am the one who has to organize and manage the projects of the company. It is not easy, but I feel grateful to be in this position. Yesterday night, my boss called me to congratulate me on completing the project successfully. Of course, I didn't do it alone, my team also contributed. I really appreciate them. This is my last project for this year. I hope to be in charge of the coming projects.

• Answer the questions about the previous paragraph

1. When was she talking with her husband?

_____.

2. How was last week for her?

_____.

3. How much time did she have to complete the project?

_____.

4. How long has she worked for the company?

_____.

5. What does she currently do at the company?

_____.

6. Did she work alone for the project?

_____.

