VIII. Read the text. Write T (true) or F (false). (5 points)

The Maasai are a group of people from East Africa. Some of the Maasai live in houses, but others travel around to find food for their animals. There are 1.5 million Maasai people and many of them live in the Masai Mara National Park. Men from the Maasai tribe wear a blanket called a shuka. It protects them from the cold at night.

Shuka are usually red because the color red means strength and bravery. They also say it scares lions. In some places, the shuka are white. This helps the Maasai hide in the dry plants. Maasai men and women wear colorful bracelets. The colors have special meaning. They use green to have healthy plants and animals.
