

One day, a fisherman was fishing to a river as usual.

He throws his net into the river.

And he just sat waiting there for fish.

So that He could sell a lot of fish in the market.

And get some good money from the fish.

After sometimes,
Fisherman hooked some relevant basil in the net.

Thinking that, He must got a lot of fish in the net.

He acted to count the net
out of the water.

But then to his dismay,
He saw just one tiny little fish in that net.

He grabbed hold that fish but then suddenly the fish started talking to him.

Tiny little fish said to the fisherman. Fisherman please, please leave me

If you leave me back in water I will tell all my friend about you. And I'll bring them near to the bank. You'll have more fish.

He was thinking. If I let go one tiny little fish today tomorrow I will get a lot of fish

Believing the word of tiny little fish, fisherman let go the tiny little fish into the river again.

This tiny little fish was really happy and swam away happily into the river never to come back

Poor fisherman, He came next day expecting that there will be a lot of fish that this tiny little fish would bring, but this tiny little fish was very clever and because of his cleverness he saved his life from the fisherman.
