

Linking words for contrast

We use these linking words to show contrast:

although even though while whereas but however despite in spite of
on the one hand, ... (on the other hand,) although, even though, while and whereas

- We use although, even though, while and whereas to put two contrasting ideas in one sentence:
I didn't buy the dress although I thought it was beautiful.
- They can be placed at the beginning of the sentence or in the middle, between the two contrasting ideas:
It was late. She decided to phone him. → Although it was late, she decided to phone him. OR She decided to phone him although it was late.
- When the sentence begins with although, even though, while or whereas, we separate the two parts with a comma. When these words are placed in the middle, the comma is optional:
Berlin is a noisy city. My home village is quite peaceful.
→ While Berlin is a noisy city, my home village is quite peaceful. OR Berlin is a noisy city whereas my home village is quite peaceful.
- even though is stronger than although:
I didn't buy the car, even though I had the money ready in my pocket.

but

- but can be used to join two sentences. In this case, it is used in the middle of the sentence and it often follows a comma:
We warned her, but she didn't pay any attention.
- but can sometimes be used at the beginning of a new sentence:
He likes romantic films. But don't tell anybody!

Read Violetta's answer to the task, ignoring the gaps. Which of her ideas do you agree with and which do you disagree with?

(1) it is fashionable to say that everyone should share the housework equally, in many homes parents do most of it. (2) , I believe people of all ages should do their fair share.

It is true that young people spend most of the day at school or college and they also have large amounts of homework to do when they come home. (3) , parents go out to work and come home tired. In my view, family life is more pleasant when everyone shares the responsibility for cleaning and tidying because it takes less time.

People often argue that parents do the cooking and ironing better. (4) in my opinion, young people should learn to do them as preparation for the future.

Finally, housework is boring if you do it alone (5) when families do it together, it gives parents and children a chance to talk to each other about the things that matter to them. This greatly improves family life and makes young people more cooperative and responsible.

For all these reasons, I think that family life is more pleasant when everyone shares the chores.

despite and in spite of

- despite and in spite of mean 'without taking any notice of or being influenced by'; 'not prevented by':
He got into the basketball team despite being quite short.
She went swimming in spite of the cold weather.
- They can be placed at the beginning of the sentence or in the middle. They are followed by a noun or a verb + -ing.
- When used at the beginning of a sentence, a comma is also used to separate the two parts of the sentence:
Despite working all day, Teresa didn't feel at all tired.
We got to school on time in spite of the heavy traffic.

on the one hand, ... (on the other hand)

- on the one hand ... (on the other hand) normally start new sentences and can be used to balance two contrasting ideas or points of view:
I'm not sure whether to go to the seaside for my holidays this year. On the one hand, most of my friends are going. On the other hand, it's time to have a change and go somewhere different.
- on the other hand can be used to introduce a contrasting idea even if you haven't used on the one hand:
Doing sport can be a great way to relax. On the other hand, it can cause quite serious injuries.
