

One. When will they go on holiday?

Man 1: Do you want to come on holiday with me in the summer?

Man 2: Sure. I can go in June, July or September.

Man 1: Well, June will be best for me. July's too hot and I have to work in September.

Man 2: OK. Where shall we go?

Two. How is Patti going to travel?

Patti: I'm going to go to Vienna on Saturday.

Man: How long does it take to fly there, Patti?

Patti: Oh, I'm going to drive.

Man: Oh yes, you get ill on planes, don't you?

Patti: Yes, and trains.

Three. What will Sam do?

Mother: You must phone me while you're on holiday, Sam.

Sam: Telephoning's too expensive. I'll send you a postcard from the campsite.

Mother: But I'll want to know you're alright. Can't you send me a letter?

Sam: I won't have time for writing letters.

Four. What was the weather like in Portugal?

Man: What was the weather like in Portugal, Debbie?

Debbie: It was cloudy every day, but it didn't rain.

Man: Really? It was lovely and sunny on our holiday in Spain.

Five. What has the girl broken?

Girl: Be careful, Mum, there are some pieces of glass on the floor

Mother: You haven't broken that nice picture, have you?

Girl: It's alright. The lemonade bottle fell on the floor.

Mother: Oh well, at least it was empty.
