

During/for/while to talk about time period

While we were eating dinner, the radio was playing
The doorbell rang while we were watching television

We waited for an hour outside the theatre for you.
Rosie, my dog, has been barking for a long time.

I will be really busy during the next year.
The children were sleeping during the movie.

1. Match during/for/while with the correct definition

Used to express how long something or someone has been doing something. Used to state a period of time and is usually used with a noun or a pronoun	Used to say when something happens Used with a noun/pronoun

Used to represent the length of time an action has been happening. Used when speaking about two actions happening at the same time. The length of the action is not important.

2. Describe your holidays OR the end of the school year while using during/for/while