FOR BETTER FOR WORSE

Ginny Bell looks at her friend's chances of having a happy marriage.

When Olivia first started going out with Tony, I thought it would never last. Two months later, she told me they were getting married. I thought she should put the wedding off for a few months until she knew Tony better. 'He really is the one,' Olivia told me. She'd said the same thing about her last three husbands, but I didn't like to point this out to her.

When Olivia asked me to be her bridesmaid, I tried to get out of the whole thing because I didn't want to see her make the same mistake again. However, I couldn't come up with a good excuse, so there I was again, standing outside the church wondering how much Olivia's parents had spent this time. A typical wedding costs about £16,000 and lasts six hours, so that's about £2,600 an hour. Olivia must be a very expensive daughter to have.

At the church Olivia introduced me by saying, "This is Ginny. She's been a bridesmaid at all my weddings!" And indeed I had. I wondered how long it would be before Olivia and Tony split up, adding £15,000 — the average cost of a divorce — to the cost of the wedding. Fortunately, Olivia got over her last three divorces quickly and is still friends with all her ex-husbands.

So what are their chances of a successful marriage? The day before the wedding I came across a newspaper report which said that the number of divorces in the UK is still going up, while the number of people getting married is falling. I looked some figures up and found out that in 1971 there were 459,000 weddings in the UK, but 2001 there were only 286,000. And as for divorce, where you live makes a huge difference. For example, the divorce rate in the UK is 53%, but in Italy it's only 12%.

When my husband and I were leaving the reception, Olivia said, 'You two have never fallen out, have you? How can I make this marriage last?' Well, Olivia, what can I say? Move to Italy!
