A Little Too Excited

Max and Alice planned to go to the country on Sunday.

Alice was very excited about the trip. She said to Max, "How do you think the weather will be?"

Max answered, "The weather will be great. It will be perfect."

Alice asked, "Will it rain?"

"No. The sky will be clear. There will be no clouds in the sky. So, there will be no rain."

Alice asked, "Will it be too hot, then?"

"No. It will not be too hot. It will not be too cold. It will be just right."

"Will it be too windy?"

"No, Alice, the wind will not blow."

Then Alice asked, "Do you think we will see some deer, or bears?"

Max sighed, a little annoyed. "Yes. We will probably see some animals. We will keep our eyes open. We will drive fast if needed."

"Will the car be okay? Will we need new tires? Will it break down?"

Max sighed again, "No, Alice, it will not break down. The car will be fine. We will not need new tires."

"Will we have enough gas?"

"Yes, Alice, we will fill the gas tank. Will you please just relax?"

"We will drive by the ocean. What about ships? I really want to see some ships. Do you think we will see some ships?"

"Alice," Max finally said, "I will show you all the ships in the world! But please, please, please, will you please stop asking questions?"
