I've lived in Japan three months now, and I'm really enjoying it. I know any Japanese before I came, but I've learned some I got here, including the word matsuri, which means "festival." One of my favorite pastimes is going to matsuri. I got home from the Nango summer jazz festival—it was great to sit around in the sunshine listening to amazing music! Last week, we to Tenjin matsuri here in Osaka. It been part of Osaka summer events about a thousand years, and some performances have hardly changed then—the traditional kagura music, for example, which I loved. There also an amazing puppet show. Tomorrow there's a big procession of boats on the river. I haven't been on the river, so I'm really looking forward to that.
