

EDUCATION AND TRAINING

Fill in the gaps

More and more people in the UK are getting university. In the past, men often applied courses in engineering or science and women trained to nurses and teachers. But this has changed and women are now different careers. More women are now doing courses engineering, maths and information technology. At university, women do better than men. More men than women fail their And more women a degree (50 percent of women, but only 40 percent of men). So one thing is difficult to understand: why do menmore money than women?
