British law is based on the principle of (1)[1] _____ meaning that if a court has already ruled on a given legal issue and another case arises with the same legal issue, the holding in the previous case will be applied to the new (2)[2] _____. The use of precedents helps to promote stability in the (3) [3] _____, as all parties are given notice as to the current state of the law.

Precedents also have a role to play when new (4)[4] _____ are presented to courts. (5) [5] _____ for both sides of a case look to cases that have been decided in the past that support their current arguments. When deciding new legal issues, sometimes courts expand (6) [6] _____.

Through reliance upon precedent established in prior cases the (7)[7] _____ has resolved many legal issues and brought stability into many areas of the law, such as the law of (8) _____ (8).

A) courts	E) contracts
B) trial	F) legal issues
C) Lawyers	G) precedents
D) common law	H) previous precedents
