

immediate family

interdependence

translate

freely

superior (n)

criticism

homogeneous

fluid

made up of the same kind of people or things your parents, brothers, sisters, and children someone with a higher position at work changing

the state of people needing one another comments that note the problems with something to move or apply something to a new place or situation easily or openly

inequality

hierarchy

concentrated

egalitarian

dynamics

assertive

continuum

a system of organization in which people are divided into levels of importance a situation in which some groups in society have less money, influence, or opportunity than others containing a lot of something compared to other places or situations behaving in a confident way a range or series of related things, in which each thing is only slightly different from the one before or after, so that there are no clear dividing points the ways in which things or people behave, react, and affect each other believing that everyone is equal and should have equal rights orientation

in the long run

bottom line

delayed gratification

persistence

thrift

the ability to give up an immediate reward in order to wait for a later one wise and careful use of money so that none is wasted the profits made by a business in a certain period the goals, interests, and emphasis of a company, political group, etc.

over a long period of time the determination to do something even though it is difficult or other people oppose it