When Mark appeared in court again, no one was surprised by his _____ to answer the judge's questions. But everyone was shocked by the recording that was played, especially Reggie, who Barry _____ should get killed. In order to _____ Mark's safety, Judge Roosevelt _____ Mark would go back into custody. But it wasn't just Mark who went to prison. So did Slick Moeller for refusing to reveal the _____ of the person who gave him the information.

Back in his prison room, Mark got ready to _____ his plan. He ran around his room until his heart was _____ and his face was red and hot. When Doreen stepped in, she found him _____ on the floor with his thumb in his mouth. He was _____ to be in shock, like Ricky. Doreen got help from another guard, who called an ambulance, and Mark was taken to St Peter's Hospital.

When Mark _____ he was alone, he _____ out of his room. In an empty office he found a phone and called Reggie. He asked her to _____ him from the car park.

When Foltrigg's men _____ with the papers to take Mark to New Orleans, they found that he was gone. By then, Mark and Reggie were on their way to New Orleans. Mark wanted to check that what Clifford _____ was true.
