

Grammar: Quantifiers

Read the paragraph. Choose the correct quantifier to complete the sentences.

Urban, suburban, and rural communities are distinct. In cities you can find _____ apartment buildings and _____ houses. There is also _____ traffic and noise. However, in the suburbs there is _____ noise. _____ houses have yards with small gardens. Finally, you can find _____ farmland in rural communities. Rural communities offer the most peace, with _____ noise, traffic, and pollution.

Paragraph Structure

Answer the following questions about the paragraph above.

1. True or false? The topic sentence is appropriate for this paragraph.
  - a. True
  - b. False
2. What would make the best concluding sentence for this paragraph?
  - a. To sum up, each community has characteristics that make it different from the others.
  - b. In conclusion, the city and the countryside are very different from each other.
  - c. All in all, the countryside is the best place to live.
3. Which of the following would make a good supporting detail for this paragraph?
  - a. I love relaxing in the countryside.
  - b. In the suburbs, schools and shopping centers are a little farther from the neighborhoods than in the cities.
  - c. Cities are not safe, and you should not live there.