

PAST TENSES WITH HYPOTHETICAL MEANING

With the following expressions we use the PAST SIMPLE to talk about how we would like THE PRESENT situation to be different.

- I'd prefer it if you didn't ask me silly quiz questions.
- I wish I could have another hour in bed.
- If only my mind wasn't in the project, I would be able to sleep.
- It's time I bought a new alarm clock, mine is broken and I am always arriving late.

With, I'd rather, I'd prefer, we use infinitive when the subject of the second verb is the same or when there is no subject.

- I'd prefer to go home right now.
- It's time to go home right now.
- I'd rather go home right now.
