The diagram illustrates a syllable identification exercise. At the top center is a photograph of a smiling mouth with red lips and white teeth. To its right is a small cartoon drawing of a person's head and shoulders. A green horizontal line extends from the central mouth image, with five vertical green lines descending from it to connect to five smaller mouth photographs arranged in a row below. Each of these five mouth photographs is connected by a green arrow pointing downwards to a white square box with a blue border, intended for writing the syllable name.

Below the central image, there are five smaller images of mouths in different positions, each with a green arrow pointing down to a corresponding empty box for writing the syllable name:

- Image 1: Mouth wide open, showing the tongue and throat.
- Image 2: Mouth slightly open, showing the tongue and throat.
- Image 3: Mouth closed, showing the lips and teeth.
- Image 4: Mouth slightly open, showing the tongue and throat.
- Image 5: Mouth closed, showing the lips and teeth.
