Pa Pradu Temple

Wat Pa Pradu has been elevated to be a royal temple since 1990, but formerly known as "Palais Lai Temple" is a deserted temple by Upachai Thian. The nearby people believed in him. Then persuaded one another to build a cloister And together in the temple Sangkhan until the successor to the future And to be consistent with the name of the village where the temple is located Tha Pradu Market Also, because there are a lot of Pradu trees inside the temple and so the name of the temple is not synonymous with Wat Pa Lelai Suphan Buri province also Therefore changed the name of the temple to "Wat Pradu" is located in the heart of the city In Rayong Municipality, Sukhumvit Road, Rayong Province at present Inside the temple, there is also an ancient Buddha statue on the left side. Is the most strange reclining Buddha in Thailand Normally, when the reclining Buddha image was built Will often create an imprint on the right side But the Reclining Buddha at Wat Pa Pradu is built in a reclining position on the left side with a length of 11.95 meters and a height of 3.60 meters. The large Buddha image on the left side is unique. With the support of his head with his left hand Observed from the Ketra monk's robes, probably in the Ayutthaya period Until it was restored Well maintained No one knows the age and history. Looking at the Ketra monk's robes, it is probably the influence of the Ayutthaya period. Has been restored Therefore regarded as the oldest monk in the city of Rayong And

Wat Pa Pradu has been elevated to be a royal temple since 1990

In addition, Wat Pa Pradu also has an old chapel built at the beginning of Rattanakosin.
