THE GUESTS HAVE COME!

When I came _____ (1) the flat, I couldn't believe my eyes: everything was upside down. It seemed that there was an Army _____ (2) soldiers came inside to have a good rest from the battles. All the corridor was full of coats and _____ (3), jackets and scarves. There was practically no place for _____(4) to hang my jacket: the hallstand was broken and there were a lot of muddy footmarks all around.

My first impulse was _____ (5) away, but I heard the voice of my mother from the kitchen and calmed down a little. With great difficulty I took off my jacket, found my slippers and entered the room. The view was horrible: Two men and three women were sitting on the sofa and four shouting children were running round the table trying to hit each other with my bamboo sticks the father had brought from Japan. A fat girl with the largest one was running and _____(6) a large piece of cake and the cream was falling through her fingers on the floor. Finally, one of the boys slipped, fell down and my favourite bamboo stick was broken...

I _____ (7) to cry.

The boy stood up and _____ (8) the stick at the second boy, but missed and broke the large Gzhel vase. He began to cry shouting that _____ (9) was the last stick left in the house.

The mother came in, saw my eyes and explained that there was nothing to worry about, because the guests wouldn't stay longer _____ (10) a week.

... And she tried to smile.
