

EXERCISE 5

Read the information. Then listen to the recording and answer the question. Choose the correct letters, A–E.

In a five-option multiple choice question, you may need to understand specific details of something you hear in the conversation. The question you see in the test will be similar to a question you will hear in the recording.

For example:

You read: Which TWO health benefits of doing yoga does the man mention?

You hear: 'So why would yoga be a good idea for the children? You know, what would be the benefits for their health?'

When you hear cues (key words) like the underlined words, you should listen more carefully.

Look at the exam question:

Which TWO services does the library currently offer?

- A a language-learning class for adults
- B an after-school club for teenagers
- C an evening art class
- D a morning book-discussion group
- E a story-reading session for young children

In the question, the cues are services and currently. This means you listen for the two services that the library offers now.

play.MP3

Which TWO services does the library currently offer?

- A a language-learning class for adults
- B an after-school club for teenagers
- C an evening art class
- D a morning book-discussion group
- E a story-reading session for young children

