Reading

Read the text and then complete sentences 1-6.

Eating vegetables is good for you.' 'An apple a day keeps the doctor away.' 'Try to eat five portions a day.' All these sayings are very well known. However, fruit and vegetables that travel hundreds of miles before they reach the supermarket shelves lose many of their valuable vitamins and minerals.

That's the main reason farmers' markets are now so popular, with around 750 of them operating in the UK alone. After the farmer picks his produce, he drives with it to the market to set up his stall. There's no produce that travels more than 30 miles. That means the fruit and vegetables you buy are fresh from the ground that morning. How many supermarkets can beat that

If you enjoy eating a few strawberries in the middle of winter, or you'd like to buy a pineapple for dessert, maybe you should think again. Produce that is not grown in season contains fewer nutrients and doesn't have much flavour either! And it's the same with fruit coming from overseas. They have less nutritional value because the farmers harvest them before they are ripe; otherwise they would become too soft to travel.

At a farmers' market, on the other hand, only seasonal produce is on sale, grown by local farmers. Don't expect to exotic produce or a full range of fruit and vegetables all year round. Do expect to buy quality, fresh and tasty food that is second to none!

- 1 The fruit and vegetables you buy in the supermarket may be short of
- 2 There are in the UK.
- 3 The produce that arrives at a farmers' market is fresh because it never
- 4 Fruit that you buy out of season
- 5 Farmers overseas pick their fruit unripe because they don't want it to
- 6 You cannot buy at farmers' markets all year.
